

BAN
THE BULLHOOK!

BAN
THE BULLHOOK!

Ban the Bullhook!

The Oregon Zoo calls it an ankus or “guide,” but this tool is really a weapon that is used to control and punish the elephants at the Zoo. In 2000, an elephant keeper inflicted over 100 lacerations, including anal penetration, on 5-year-old Rose-Tu with this weapon. An investigation led to Rose-Tu’s Law, which made it illegal to inflict sexual abuse on an animal. In medical records, Packy was found to have “apparent ankus wounds.”

California and Rhode Island, along with many cities, have banned the use of the bullhook. Many zoos have instituted protected contact, which protects both the elephants and the keepers from harm. Isn’t it time for the Oregon Zoo to do the same?

Speak up for the elephants at the Oregon Zoo! Call to ban the bullhook!

Call or email:

Lynn Peterson - Metro President
lynn.peterson@oregonmetro.gov
503-797-1889

Donald Moore - Zoo Director
don.moore@oregonzoo.org
503-220-2450

FreeOregonZooElephants.org

Like us on Facebook + Follow us on Twitter

Ban the Bullhook!

The Oregon Zoo calls it an ankus or “guide,” but this tool is really a weapon that is used to control and punish the elephants at the Zoo. In 2000, an elephant keeper inflicted over 100 lacerations, including anal penetration, on 5-year-old Rose-Tu with this weapon. An investigation led to Rose-Tu’s Law, which made it illegal to inflict sexual abuse on an animal. In medical records, Packy was found to have “apparent ankus wounds.”

California and Rhode Island, along with many cities, have banned the use of the bullhook. Many zoos have instituted protected contact, which protects both the elephants and the keepers from harm. Isn’t it time for the Oregon Zoo to do the same?

Speak up for the elephants at the Oregon Zoo! Call to ban the bullhook!

Call or email:

Lynn Peterson - Metro President
lynn.peterson@oregonmetro.gov
503-797-1889

Donald Moore - Zoo Director
don.moore@oregonzoo.org
503-220-2450

FreeOregonZooElephants.org

Like us on Facebook + Follow us on Twitter